Pittsburgh, October 25, 1815.

DOCTOR N. SMITH,

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, that he has been regularly licensed to practice PHYSICK AND SURGERY, and has for several years been engaged in the practice of its various branches, and therefore offers them his services, particularly in the capacity of a Dentist, hoping that his thorough knowledge of this branch of his profession, united with assiduity in business, and exertions to please, will entitle him to the patronage of the public. He cleans, repairs and extracts defective teeth, inserts new ones in such a manner and of such materials, the knowledge of which is peculiar to himself. He deems encomiums upon his performances superfluous, as he has set a number of artificial teeth since his residence in Pittsburgh; those that have scruples respecting the operation are requested to call and satisfy themselves.

The operation of inserting and cleaning is attended with little or no pain.

He also prepares the highly celebrated Carbone Dentrifice, which will keep the teeth white and prevent the collection of Tartor.

Applications made at Dr. Morrel Parker's east side of Wood street, between Diamond Alley and Fifth streets.

October 14, 1815.

N. B. If the expectations are not answered, pecuniary satisfaction will not be required.

Chittenden & Parmele,

WOULD inform their Customers and the Public, that owing to the late Fire in Wood Street, their BOOT & SHOE MANUFACTORY, is removed to their Store in Market Street, where they will be thankful to receive any orders in their line of business; and all those who will favor them wtih their custom, may depend upon having it done with neatness and dispatch.

They have on hand

5000 pair of Shoes,

Of different kinds, which they offer at Whole-Sale & Retail cheep for Cash.

Information Wanted

OF a certain SAMUEL THORNE, late of Crofton, near Wakefield in Yorkshire, England. He sailed from Liverpool, on the 9th of August last, in the ship Factor, for Philadelphia, and arrived there on the 17th of September. It is supposed he left Philadelphia for Pittsburgh about the 25th of September.—His wife with three children, have arrived at Philadelphia in the Helvetius, and earnestly wish to learn where he now is. His family are at present residing at No. 114, Water Street, between Arch and Race Streets, Philadelphia. Any information respecting said Thorne, will be thankfully received by his family as above, or by Nicholas Cunningham & Co. Merchants, Pittsburgh,

December 23d, 1815.

☞ Printers in the Western Country will serve the cause of humanity, by giving the above one or two insertions in their respective papers.

Regulation of Ferries,

ON the OHIO, ALLEGHENY, MONONGAHELA, and YOUGHIOGENY Rivers, within the county of Allegheny, established by the Court of Quarter Sessions of the said County, agreeable to an act of assembly, entitled "An Act authorising the Court of Quarter Sessions in Allegheny County to regulate the Ferries within the same," passed March 13th, 1815.

1. The Rates of Ferriage shall be as hereinafter is ascertained, limited and appointed, viz:—

	Dolls.	Cts.
For a foot passenger,	00	6 1-4
a horse and rider,	00	12 1-2
a led horse,	00	12 1-2
a carriage of pleasure, with four wheels, drawn by two or four horses,	00	50
a carriage with four wheels, drawn by one horse,	00	37 1-2
a gig or chair,	00	37 1-2
a sleigh, or sled,	00	25
a cart and horse,	00	25
a road waggon,	1	00
a market waggon,	00	50
mail stage,	00	50
cattle, per head,	00	12 1-2
sheep and hogs, per head,	00	6 1-4
barrels of whiskey, salt, flour, &c. per barrel,	00	6 1-4

To prevent unreasonable delays, in the transportation of passengers, it is required that no person shall be detained on either side of the river more than ten minutes, after it may be in the power of the ferryman to transport him.—And, at ferries where two or more flats are kept, whenever a flat leaves one side of the river, a flat shall immediately be started from the opposite side.

To prevent accidents, it is required that boats shall not be overloaded, nor crouded, so as to subject the passengers to danger, or inconvenience.

Every person keeping a public ferry, within the county of Allegheny is requested to set up a copy of these rules and regulations, in some conspicuous part of his house, for the inspection of all persons whom them may concern.

By order of the Court,

E. PENTLAND, Clk.

[This sloop of war, under the command of the celebrated SHUBRICK, left the Mediterranean, with despatches to our government the day of July last. The lapse of six months has filled the publick mind with the most alarming apprehensions concerning the destiny of this vessel, the officers, the crew and the passengers. Amongst the latter it is to be feared were those Americans, who had been recently liberated from their captivity in Algiers, and LIEUTENANT JOHN FOLLIFFE YARNALL. This awful event permits private friendship to be no longer silent.]

O thou enlivner of the human mind
Where SADNESS, else, and gloomy sorrow sweep,
With raven wings, through darkness unconfin'd,
And CHEERFULNESS's smiles in bondage keep,
Still linger round the cavern of DESPAIR,
And cast, O HOPE! one gleam of sunshine there!

The father's pray'rs, the orphan's sobbing cries,
In their peculiar energy express'd,
A sister's tears, the widowed mother's sighs,
To thee O HOPE! are at this hour address'd:
No balm of COMFORT, to their hearts, is near,
If thou, BENIGNANT POW'R, refuse to hear.

Hour follows hour, and day to day succeeds,
Weeks make up months, and months amount to years;
But EXPECTATION expectation breeds,
And calls on THEE to dissipate our fears;—
Yet fears and apprehensions rise in crowds
And strive to shadow o'er thy beams with clouds.

Darker and darker still the prospect grows,
'Till scarce one ray the gathering gloom pervades;
Worn out SUSPENCE no casual doubt bestows,
And FANCY's lingering twilight's glimmering fades:
Now sick at heart, from Hope, deferred too long,
The voice of JOY cheers not the mourning throng.

Far o'er the wide Atlantick, every eye,
That aches with watching—tho' it cannot sleep,
Looks through the misty regions of the sky,
And glances o'er the billows of the deep:—
In vain the visual shaft pursues its mark—
SHUBRICK appears not, nor his gallant BARK!

In wild suspence, each agitated soul
Resembles OCEAN's limitless abyss,
Where waves on waves, in desperate surges, roll,
Headlong from precipice to precipice,
Then, breaking on the topmast ridges, bound
In furious whirlpools to the vast profound!

Lost in UNCERTAINTY, no clew, no guide
Directs our driving thoughts, nor checks their speed;
O'er the void wilderness they wander wide
From every self-imposed restriction freed.
Tired out, at last, IMAGINATION halts,
And, with dismay, from further search revolts!

Yet REASON strives to keep our spirits up,
With many a bold or plausible surmise;
Contends that, in AFFLICTION's bitterest cup,
One drop at least of CONSOLATION lies;
And bids us still, with confidence, depend
On HIM who always was the sufferer's friend.

"Shall we suppose," she asks, "that THOSE who past
"So many years in hard CAPTIVITY,
"Should, by DECATUR, be released, at last,
"Merely to sink in yon devouring SEA?
"And that their friends, upon a distant shore,
"Should never feel their warm embraces more?

"And shall that venturous CREW be thus inurn'd,
Afar from home, beneath unfriendly waves,
Whose gallant hearts, with indignation burn'd,
To free their countrymen from being SLAVES—
And who, with so much skill, repell'd the blow,
Which, but for them, had laid OUR COUNTRY low?"

—SHUBRICK! to thee and thy INTREPID CREW,
Whose patriotick labours have been shown,
The willing MUSE awards the homage due,
And consecrates your monumental stone,
On which the pen of history shall repeat
The daring deeds of many a naval feat.

Where all are brave 'twere hardly fair to choose
And fix the applausive look on only one;
And yet, without an eagle's eye, the muse
Could not, at once, behold what all have done:
The range is too extensive, and the blaze
Of your exploits o'erpow'rs the incautious gaze.

The bias, too, which partial FRIENDSHIP owns
Will justify the choice of YARNALL's name,
AFFECTION for such preference well atones
And saves the poet, in the friend from blame:
Nor will FRATERNAL FONDNESS, felt so long,
Withhold from him the eulogising song.

If, when a nation, that has suffered wrongs
Which diplomatic skill cannot redress,
Calls out her troops of VOLUNTEERS, in throngs,
An insolent INVASION to repress,
And, at her call, her sons in phalanx join,
Breast flanking breast, to wall the lengthened line;

Or, if on ERIE's flood, at PERRY's side,
Where duty stationed him, young YARNALL stood,
And, with composure, every method tried,
To fill the ranks as often as he could,
'Till his brave fallen comrades, round him thrown,
Left him, at last, to work his guns alone;—

If, when, those ranks were thinn'd the COMMODORE
Leaped from the LAWRENCE, whilst she yet could swim,
And recognizing YARNALL, in his gore,
Conferred the desperate management to him,
Who with his eight companions kept the deck
And sprang to triumph from the sinking wreck;*

If deeds like these entitle one to fame,
Such as the world possesses pow'r to give,
HIS HONOURS are secure; for YARNALL's name
Must, on the records of his country, live;—
And PERRY and DECATUR will attest
Who seconded their boldest efforts best.

Thus is his praise established here on earth,
By those who have his public service shar'd;
His higher praise, built on his MORAL WORTH,
Needs not the testimony of the Bard—
That Bard who knew his heart, and who might swell
The eulogy of one he lov'd so well:—

For, since the moral duties best are shown
In brother, son, companion, neighbour, friend,
These virtues may, on his sepulchral stone,
Be, by the SCULPTOR's chisel, made to blend:
For these were his, as those survivors know,
Whose tears for him in sweet remembrance flow.

But ah! it matters not what might be said,
O'er the cold ashes of the friends we mourn.
Our best instruction is, to know, the dead
Have surely passed th' irremeable bourne:—
A simple truth which, to the mind, conveys
More profit than all monumental praise.

THE FATE OF MURAT.

Translated for the Baltimore Patriot, from the Florence Gazette of Oct. 24, received by the General Jackson from Leghorn.

Joachim Murat having fled last May from Naples, sought an asylum in France where the sudden appearance of Napoleon seemed to elevate his mind to new hopes.

After the events which took place in consequence of the battle of Waterloo, Murat remained in Provence less with the intention of there finding security, than to excite anarchy among the inhabitants of those departments, and thus to rekindle the flame of civil war already extinguished.

The progress of the allied arms & the devotion of Toulon and Marseilles, to their legitimate sovereign compelled that general to leave Prance. The police of Naples, which had constantly followed his footsteps during the whole time he had remained in the French territory, did not lose sight of him when he left that coast.

Murat went to Corsica; there he was received by Signor Colonna Coccaldi, Mayor of Vescovata.

The appearance of the fugitive general excited the attention and vigilance of the military commander of the Island, who soon had reason to be convinced that the new guest had come there for the purpose of completing the new machiaations which he resolved in his mind.

Vescovato became the head quarters of all the Corsicans who had served in Naples under the command of Gen. Murat, who, in violation of the law of nations, had it in contemplation to surprise Bastia, and thus attempt to disturb the tranquility of that Island, which had already peaceably submitted to the dominion of the Bourbons.

On the 15th Sept. a proclamation by Signor Chevalier Verrier, commandant ad interrim of that military division, made known the secret of the fugitive general to the deceived inhabitants, and denounced as traitors and rebels, all such as received pay from Murat, who then took refuge in Ajaccio, where he continued to enlist people to the number of 600.

In the mean time, divers public papers announced that the generosity of the allies had offered to that General an asylum in Germany, under the protection of the Emperor of Austria and King of Bohemia; that he with his family, might make choice of a residence in one of the cities of Moravia, of Bohemia or upper Austria, and there live in tranquility as a simple individual; in fine, that an English frigate was destined to transport him from Corsica to Trieste.

The results of these reports was looked for, when on the night of the 28th September last, General Murat fled from Ajaccio.

Although these designs seemed to be absolutely romantic, nevertheless the Neapolitan government had directed light vessels to cruize, in order to guard the coasts of the kingdom in such manner, that a line of gun boats might remain on a station from the waters of Gaeta to those of Monticircello; another from the point of the Campanella to the light house; and a third from the Capo dell Armi so the Ionian Sea.

The event has evinced how great was the wisdom of these measures. On the 8th inst. as soon as Gen. Murat arrived with a scorridoja and above to the shore of Pizzo, in Calabria Ulterior. Immediately he disembarked with 30 followers among whom were Lt. Gen. Franceschetti and marshal Natali.

From the shore he quietly directed his steps towards the square; arrived there, he undertook to excite a sedition, the source of civil war, crying out to the people, "I am your King Joachim Murat; you ought to know me."

These words were the signal for a general commotion; they fled to arms.—Murat and his followers, who directed their route to Monte-leone, perceiving themselves closely pursued by the population, precipitated themselves down certain cragged places, from whence they attempted to open a way for themselves to the coast, and there endeavor to regain the launch, which waited for them at the shore; there, however, overcome by the number and courage of those who pursued them, they were made prisoners, and notwithstanding a very strong resistance on their part, were conducted to the fort of Pizzo.

In the heat of the engagement captain Pernice was killed, and gen. Franceschetti and 7 other men wounded; all in the suite of Murat.

While the action was warmest at the shore, the scorridoja and the bove betook themselves to flight.

The whole expedition of gen. Murat was composed of 6 vessels; 4 of them have fallen into the hands of H. M. marine; chace is given to the other two. It is said that one of the other vessels had put on shore near the coast of Liscosa, three emissaries charged with criminal operations.

This event has not in the least altered the public tranquility; every where a calm has been preserved, worthy of a nation that loves order, and is affectionately attached to its legitimate sovereign.

The police, to which the most secret designs of Murat were known had disposed every thing so, that the public order might not suffer; but its measures have constantly maintained the character of a paternal government.

Whilst it was known that Murat endeavoured to plunge us in all the horrors of anarchy and civil war, the government has not permitted a single individual to be arrested throughout the whole superfices of the kingdom, thoroughly persuaded of the fidelity of its subjects.

This does honor to the king's heart, who was not deceived when he placed all his trust in the devotion and love of his people.

History will record with honor the zeal of the generous inhabitants of Pizzo, the benificence of H. M. towards them, and the noble conduct pursued by all the authorities, judicial, civil and military, all of whom have on this occasion acquired new rights to the affection of the king, and esteem of the nation.

[Journal of the Sicilies.

Extract of another letter dated October 17, 1815.

Joachim Murat, brought before a military commission, has been condemned to death, and shot on the 13th instant at Pizzo.

It is reported, that his guilty attempt is irrefragably proved by authentic documents of the greatest importance, found at the moment of his arrest.

The crime was entirely concealed in the heart of the invader, and his followers come from Corsica.

Heaven had reserved for the inhabitants of Pizzo, the glory of saving our country, and Italy, from new revolutionary calamities; but this glory ought to regarded as the patrimony of the whole nation. In every part whatever of the kingdom, the Disturber of the publick peace would have found in the subjects of H. M. the same fidelity and zeal, as in those of the farthest extremity of Calabria.

By particular letters dated at Naples, we have the following further details relative to this event.

Some time back a foreign emissary dispatched by Murat, had penetrated as far as Naples, who however was instantly arrested, and still remained in prison, without having as yet confessed the criminal commissions, with which he had been charged.

Moreover, about the persons who landed at Pizzo, were found many copies of divers proclamations by Murat, tending to create an insurrection of the people against their legitimate sovereign.

On the first notice of this mad attempt the prince of Canosa had been sent from Naples, with instructions to the governor general Nunziante, but having met on the rout the Courier, bearer of the sentence executed, the above mentioned prince returned to his capital.

After Murat had heard sentence of death pronounced by the military commission, conformably to the same military code which was in force in the time of his government, and which has not yet been altered, he accepted a confessor, with whom he remained about an hour; he then underwent his sentence at a little distance from the gate of the prison, where he had been confined.

NORFOLK, Dec. 13.

THE WASP SUNK!

Notwithstanding the reports which we have heretofore published, a conversation with an officer of the first rank and respectability in the Navy, permits us to entertain no doubts of the loss of the U. States Sloop of War Wasp, and that her end was as glorious as her cruize had been brilliant.

All readers of newspapers must recollect, that about a year ago, there was an account of a British frigate putting into Cadiz much cut to pieces, and 100 men killed and wounded; reporting her having had an engagement with a large American frigate off that port.

It was known at the time that we had no frigate in that quarter, and that the Wasp was believed to be cruizing in that neighborhood; but little was thought or said about it at that time, as the report was not generally credited. We now learn, from a source which cannot be doubted that there was an action between a British frigate of the largest class, and an American ship, and that it was, undoubtedly the Wasp. Lieut. Conkling, who commanded the schooner Ohio, one of com. Sinclair's squadron, on lake Erie, and who was captured in August, 1814, off fort Erie, and sent to England, has lately reported himself to his commanding officer; to whom it appears, he related, having met with one of the Lieuts. who was on board of the above mentioned frigate; and was informed by him, that the Ship they engaged was not a Frigate, as was stated; and that his commander, as well as every person on board, could see, by her battle lanterns being lighted, and from the flashes of her guns that she was a Corvette ship, mounting 22 and that they believed themselves no other than the Wasp; but, after so gallantly beaten off, and having red so severely, they were reluct acknowledge how inferior the force which inflicted such severe chastise on them. It appears, by the Lie ant's own account, that the action l several hours; that the Frigate she off to refit, intending, if circumst would admit of it, to renew the acti daylight, which was not far distant at its earliest dawn, there was no v of their gallant opponent. From crippled state of the ships, and the time intervening between their se tion and daylight, the Lieutenant ved it impossible that they could been out of sight of each other, had opponent been above water.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZET[TE]

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 30, 181[illegible]

The citizens of this place were alarmed by the cry of FIRE, on Mo[nday] evening last, about 7 o'clock. The [fire] proceeded from a frame Bake Shop, [ow]ned by Mr. Edward Carr, which burnt to the foundation. By the [time] the citizens had collected the whole [buil]ding was enveloped in flames, and buildings adjoining were threatened [with] destruction—but owing to the acti[ve] and great exertions of the citizens, further damage was sustained.

It does not appear, that the committ[ee] appointed by the House of Represen[ta]tives of this State, to arrange the diff[er]ent items in the Governor's Messa[ge] have taken notice of that part of it, wh[ich] relates to Bonaparte and the Allied S[o]vereigns.

SHORT SUMMARY.

Congress have fixed themselves in t[he] new building built by a company for th[eir] accommodation, until the Capitol is fi[]nished. On Monday nothing of mome[nt] was done, except the presentation [of] petitions from sundry manufacturers [of] Philadelphia and New York, praying [for] the repeal of the duties on domestic ma[]nufactures, the prohibition of the impo[r]tation of coarse cotton fabrics, and th[e] repeal of the excise laws. Col. Johns[on] moved an enquiry into the expedien[cy] of paying the claims of citizens for t[he] loss of property in the public service d[u]ring the late war. A resolution w[as] passed, to provide for the widows an[d] orphans of persons slain in the late wa[r]. James Turnbull, wounded at Dartmo[or] petitioned for a pension. The commi[t]tee of elections made a report vacatin[g] the seat of W. S. Smith, of New Yor[k] and admitting Mr. Willoughby to it.

The Senate have, it is believed, th[e] commercial treaty with England unde[r] consideration.

Major General JACKSON is sick a[t] Washington.

No business of importance has as ye[t] engaged the deliberation of the legisla[]ture of Pennsylvania. Numerous peti[]tions, generally of a private nature, hav[e] been presented to the House of Repre[]sentatives. There was considerable agi[]tation, a few days since, in both Senat[e] and House of Representatives, occasio[]ned by the Election returns from thi[s] district, Westmoreland and Fayette, no[t] having been received at the Secretary's office—the neglect prevented the members from taking their seats.

NEW CAPITOL.

The house on Capitol Hill, commonly called the new Capitol, which was built by a company for the use of Congress, until the Capitol is finished, stands at the corner of First street east, and Maryland Avenue. The chamber for the Senate is on the first floor; it is 15 feet high, 25 ft. 6 inches wide, and 45 ft. long. A gallery is attached to this chamber, which takes up no part of the room

On the 2d floor is the chamber intended for the House of Representatives: it is 77 ft. long, 44 ft. wide, and 12 ft. high; to it is attached a spacious gallery; and for the use of both houses, there is a sufficiency of committee rooms and offices. The spot on which this spacious building stands was a cabbage garden on the morning of the 4th of July; in the afternoon of that day the digging was commenced. At that time the stone employed in the structure was not quarried; the clay of which the bricks are made, was in its native state, and all the principal timbers were then standing in the woods.

The London papers state, that a large house had been framed and was going to St: Helena, for Bonaparte, with most superb furniture, a minute description of which is given in the papers.

The refractory British seamen had been quelled by the civil arm, backed by the military, without a single life being lost. Some of the ringleaders were in custody. They committed many follies, but no enormities.

From the Boston Gazette.

RAPID POPULATION.

Probably no country ever progressed so rapidly in population and improvement as our western states and territ[ories]

...ries have for the last 10 or 15 years. In 1791 Kentucky had barely a population sufficient to entitle her to become a state (about 60,000.) Now her population exceeds half a million. Ohio and Tennessee were but as yesterday territories, and now they are each more populous than seven of the old states; either of them have more than 300,000 inhabitants.—And even Indiana which we had hardly learnt to consider any thing but a pathless wilderness has risen to the magnitude of a state, her population having increased in 5 years from 50 to more than 60,000. The towns of Marietta, Chillicothe, Cincinnatti, Steubenville, Louisville, Lexington, Nashville, Frankfort, &c. have within a few years been transformed by the industry and enterprize of man, from uncultivated wilds to populous, elegant and wealthy towns. About 5 years since 8 lots of land were offered in Cincinnatti for $50 each, and six of these lots have been sold this year for $25,000.

SEA SERPENT.

The brig Trim, capt. Cleaveland, on her passage from Gibraltar to this port, on the 25th of Oct. in lat. 31, long. 20, passed a substance in the water about 25 or 30 ft. from the vessel, which, from its extraordinary appearance, induced the captain to tack ship with a view to examine what it was—the wind being light from W. S. W. caused the boat to be lowered down, and sent the mate with 2 men to make discovery. On their return they gave the following description:—When we came in sight of the before mentioned substance, turned the boat and backed her stern nearly over him, then about four feet under water, lying quoiled up with his head on the top of the quoil—the head being pointed and about 12 or 14 inches in length, with upper and lower tushes or teeth, appeared from 3 to 4 inches outside the jaw, shut within each other, appeared curvely like the tush of a hog, and extremely white. His body had the appearance in size of about 3 to 3 1-2 feet in circumference, tapering towards the tail; his colour was of the deepest crimson, and reflected the water some yards round. The boat being to leeward of the reptile, the little wind and sea while they stood viewing him, drifted it off about 30 or 40 feet; the mate then concluded to hook him; the noise of the oars at the first stroke startled him, he threw himself out his length, with his head towards the boat, and came very near, raising himself nearly to the surface of the water in an attitude of attack, it was judged best to make for the vessel. His length could not have been less than 30 or 40 feet, and we judge him to be in form and appearance like to a Sea Serpent.

FICTITIOUS BANK.

At the Sessions now held in this city, before his Honor the Mayor, and two Aldermen, a conviction took place on Monday of an interesting nature to the community. Benjamin F. Haskins, and two others, one by the name of Bayard, and the other Phelps, were indicted for a conspiracy to defraud the public, by means of a fictitious bank. Bayard appeared on the face of the bills as President, and Phelps as Cashier. The circumstances as related to us, were shortly these:

Haskins, who was the ring-leader and contriver of the plot, and who alone reaps the benefit of the roguery, sought for a man of the same name with the President of one of our banks, and at last found him in one Bayard, a common soldier, from whom, for a trifle, he obtained a power of attorney to sign his name to money bills. Phelps was his clerk, and signed as Cashier merely by his direction. Thus prepared, he opened an office, which he called the Agency and Exchange Bank, and issued notes resembling the notes of the Bank of America, which were circulated to the amount of several thousand dollars, but which, when presented for payment, could find no one to acknowledge them. The jury found them all guilty, but recommended Phelps to mercy. Haskins was remanded to Bridewell, till the court is ready to pronounce sentence.

[A number of Notes of the above description, have been circulated in this town.]

Method of building Chimney's that will not smoke.

Workmen have different methods of drawing up the funnels of Chimneys, generally according to their own fancies and judgements, and some times according to the customs of places. To prevent their smoking, this method has been suggested:

Carry up a vent as perpendicular as possible, at least without angles, and made about three or four inches wider at top than bottom, and the funnel gathered in a throat directly above the fire place and so widened according to this direction.

This method may be objected to by some thus: The wider a chimney is at top, say they, the more liberty has the wind to blow down.

The answer to this objection is, that the air in the rooms being rarified, is forced into the funnel of the chimney, and receive from the fire an additional force to drive up the smoke; the further up the smoke flies, the less is the force that drives it; the slower it must move; and consequently, the more room in proportion it should have to move in; whereas in the usual way, it has less, by the side of the chimney being gathered closer and closer together. Upon the plan suggested, the blowing down of the wind is resisted by the form of the chimney, and other evident cause'.

The method sometimes adopted in this city of making side holes near the top, will answer the same purpose as widening the chimney, and is not liable to the objection stated.

From the Connecticut Spectator.

Every reader of taste will be pleased with the touching simplicity, and every christian with the force, of the following story:

A man in low circumstances discovered some valuable articles belonging to his neighbor, collected only a short distance from his house. He determined upon taking a part of it secretly for the use of his own family. With a view of having some trifling assistance, he took with him his son, who was as yet a mere child. His mother was a godly woman, and had a deep sense of the obligations incumbent on her, to bring up her children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. She had made him understand the great truths of religion, and the leading precepts respecting man's duty to his maker, himself and his fellow creatures. But she taught him more particularly: that God took cognizance of whatever passed on earth, that he was a constant witness of all our actions, and that we are accountable to him for them. With his little son the man went to the place where his neighbor's property had been deposited. When he had arrived, the thoughtless parent, by accident made known to his innocent companion the mischief on which he was intent. You may imagine how much a child thus educated, was shocked at the wickedness of his parent; he was unable to utter his abhorrence of the crime.

The parent, however, leaving him by the object of the proposed plunder, with a careful and anxious eye, examined the adjacent path and fields, that he might avoid detection. As soon as he became satisfied that he was unseen, he returned with a mind bent on bearing it away.—Just as he was stooping to take it, his little son, in accents most feeling and affecting, said to him, "Papa, you have looked all around and have seen nobody—but you have not looked above, to heaven. There is the great God, to whom we must give an account, looking down at you with an angry face! Papa he sees you." At this thought, expressed by so small a child, with an inimitable tenderness of feeling, the astonished father started back, left his neighbor's property untouched, and hastened with many serious and awakening reflections to his home. "The great God he sees you; he is looking at you with an angry face," were ideas constantly in his mind. From this moment the parent dated his conversation from a life of sin, and the commencement of the work of salvation in his heart. He became a pious, virtuous and happy man.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S
Anti-Bilious Pills,
Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female:

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatalency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age,

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by
J. P. & J. W. SKELTON,
at their Wholesale and Retail Apothecary and Drug Store.

DOCTOR HANDY'S
WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.
A safe and efficacious medicine for destroying and bringing away WORMS.

MAY be used with safety by children of any age, or as common physic by the most delicate constitution, in any climate, without restraint of diet, or the smallest danger from cold. It may be given with advantage after the small-pox or measles; or as a family medicine, in any case where physic is necessary.—The most frequent seat of worms in the human body, is the intestinal tube; but occasionally they have been found in almost every other part of the body.

Some very extraordinary cases of Worms, of an unusual form and appearance, being brought away by these Lozenges, have been made public in England, where the rapid sale of the medicine has exceeded any thing of the kind ever known before; and has also proved, to a demonstration, its approved superiority, as an athelminthick, to the numerous puffed-up, useless nostrums, which are daily advertised in the newspapers.

A single dose of this valuable medicine has often been known to remove half a pot full of the Téres or Round Worms.

A few doses are generally sufficient to remove the Ascarides, a small white worm, the seat of which is either the stomach or rectum.

Even the Tape Worm, at all times the most difficult to destroy, may, by persevering in the frequent use of this medicine, be totally removed in the course of a few weeks.

To select cases, with the names of people who are not known here, and living at a great distance, would be useless, and take up too much of the readers time. We shall therefore only observe, for the benefit of those who are acquainted with the symptoms of worms, that they are known or suspected to exist by a pain in the stomach, attended with a sudden depression of spirits before eating; at other times the belly is hard, painful and distended with wind—costiveness, head ache, and trembliug of the limbs, with a sense of something rising in the throat—pale complexion and emaciated body, with weakness and irregular appetite—convulsive, epileptic or falling fits—pains in the back and side, and frequent itching of the nose, and sometimes of the anus. The above and a long train of afflicting diseases may all be occasioned by worms, which are much oftener the cause of death than is commonly believed.

The above Valuable MEDICINE, is sold,
ONLY, by
J. P. & J. W. Skelton,
At their WHOLESALE & RETAIL Drug Store, at the corner of Wood and Third Streets, PITTSBURGH.

Public Bathing House.

THE Proprietors of THE PITTSBURGH STEAM MILL BATHING HOUSE, hereby inform the Public, that the capacity of the water reservoirs for that establishment is doubled, and so arranged that the cold and warm water are perfectly seperated. The public will not in future meet with the disappointments consequent on the former arrangement.

The cost of this establishment, has been considerable, and the Proprietors are sorry to say the proceeds arising from it are not sufficient to warrant the opening of it another season under the present limited patronage. It is however hoped that the new arrangement alluded to, together with a more extended knowledge of the great benefit arising from the use of Baths in such a place as this, will in a short time, produce a more liberal encouragement.

The price of BATHING is 25 Cents. The House will be open from 5 in the morning till 10 at night.
